

Amanda Kenyon, Consultant

Amanda Kenyon is a private consultant with over 15 years experience in the community economic development field and runs her own successful small business based in the Northern Rivers of NSW.

While Amanda specialises in Business Incubators, Small Business Development Initiatives, and Small Town Revitalisation, she has extensive experience in the field of community development, more specifically, evaluation, facilitation, skills development programs for Aboriginal Business Advisers and community organisations, community consultation, strategic and business planning, and feasibility studies, and works throughout Australia and internationally.

Amanda has spent many years in Government both State and Federal is involved with Women in Business programs and Chairs ANZABI and a very successful Regional Cuisine Project.